1961-1962 SIR GEORGE WILLIAMS MEN'S BASKETBALL TEAM

Inducted in 2017 as a Team

Institution: Sir George Williams

The Sir George Williams University men's basketball program has a rich and storied history. There have been many great stars and accomplishments over the years, and the 1961-62 team had plenty of both. For the first time in a number of years the Georgians defeated a couple of respected American opponents in exhibition play. They defeated Castleton State College 65-58 and Albany College of Pharmacy 70-44.

Sir George competed in the City Intercollegiate Basketball League and swept all games versus Université de Montreal and Loyola College, but struggled to get past McGill University, losing 57-52 in the league final.

The Georgians rolled up an impressive 11-1 win-loss record in Ottawa-St. Lawrence Intercollegiate Athletic Association play. Their only loss coming late in the season at the hands of the Carleton Ravens. On Friday, March 9, before a packed house at Mont St. Louis Gym, captain Willie Epstein scored 19 points to lead Sir George to a league championship defeating the same Ravens team 67-55. It was the third straight OSLAA title for the Georgians. The championship capped off a great era in the history of Georgian men's basketball.

The 1961-62 team was coached by the legendary Mag Flynn, and this was the last season for the man who had been Sir George's coach since 1950. He left with an exceptional record of 155 wins and just 24 losses. The spring of 1962 also marked end of the fine careers of Willie Epstein, Sy Luterman, Marty Lehrer and Soly Apel - four young men who had helped bring great glory to Sir George Williams men's basketball.

Coach Flynn had always been reluctant to name the best Georgian team and top players from his years in athletics, but when he retired from coaching in 1962 he finally relented. "You just have to go with the group of Epstein, Lehrer, Luterman, Watson and Apel and their staggering 47-5 record in Canadian collegiate competition of 47-5 over the last three years."

1962 SIR GEORGE WILLIAMS MEN'S SOCCER TEAM

Inducted in 2009 as a Team

Institution: Sir George Williams

In an unorthodox season, with games often played in driving rain and severe cold, the 1962 Sir George Williams University men's soccer team met every challenge head-on and brought home the Ottawa-St. Lawrence Intercollegiate Athletic Association championship.

Under the direction of head coach Peter Wilcox, the Georgians were undefeated in four exhibition games versus American colleges. In conference play, the team had a perfect 6-0 win-loss record. There was a 4-0 loss to McGill University, but the Redmen used two ineligible players and had to forfeit the match.

One of the highlights was a 3-0 victory over the Loyola Warriors on October 23. Loyola was the defending champion and had thumped Sir George by a 6-3 score the previous season. The first half was tough on the churned up field at Newman Park. But Arnold Todd, Ruthven Licorish and Eric Martin scored in the second half to give the Georgians the victory.

Sir George closed out the season with a spectacular 4-3 come-from-behind victory over the Carleton Ravens on a muddy Ottawa field. The Ravens were leading 2-0 when Arnold Todd scored for the Georgians. Carleton pulled away again, taking a 3-1 lead. Sir George was struggling and the situation was grim. But with 12 minutes left, Gerald Stachrowski scored, giving his team a much-needed spark. Soon after Ruthven Licorish tied the game. Finally victory was secured when Baron Dyer scored by deflecting Arnold Todd's corner kick. The win over Carleton gave Sir George its perfect season and the conference title. There were no playoffs in the Ottawa-St. Lawrence conference at the time. The team with the best record in the regular season was declared the champion.

In 1963-64, first-year head coach Al Hirsch took seven rookies and four returning lettermen and molded them into a men's basketball team that would go on to be one of the most accomplished in the history of Sir George Williams University.

The Georgians posted a 13-1 win-loss record in the Ottawa-St. Lawrence Athletic Association regular season. Their only loss came early in the season to the Carleton Ravens. Overall, the team had a 17-7 record.

In OSLAA playoff action, Sir George easily disposed of the Bishop's Gaiters 90-48 and then headed to Ottawa to meet the powerful Ravens. In a gym packed with Carleton fans, the Georgians won the conference championship 78-69.

A few days later, the team travelled to Windsor, Ont. to compete in the CIAU national championship. The Georgians lost their opening game 78-70 to the University of British Columbia. But they emerged as the third best team in the country after a 63-57 victory over Acadia University in the bronze medal game.

The Georgians' Warren Sutton was named the MVP of the national championship tournament. Sutton had been instrumental in the team's success all year, averaging 30.5 points and 16.5 rebounds a game.

Inducted in 2003 as a Team

Institution: Sir George Williams

The 1965-66 Sir George Williams Georgians men's hockey team was the most dominant team in a true hockey dynasty that ruled Canadian university hockey from 1963 to 1967. Featuring the crowd-pleasing line of Alex Matthew, Trevor Kerr and Bob Berry, who were the highest scoring line in college history, the team packed thousands of fans into the old Montreal Forum for games. At the time Coach Paul Arsenault was quoted as saying, "We have more good hockey players than ever before. We have experience, size and speed." With spirit, the team rolled over the likes of Bishop's, Ottawa St. Lawrence Athletic Association playoffs on February 26 and then headed to the national championship in Sudbury, Ontario. In the preliminaries, Sir George lost a heartbreaker 9-7 to University of Toronto, who went on to win the university championship.

1968-1969 SIR GEORGE WILLIAMS SWIMMING TEAM

The 1968-69 Sir George Williams University swim team finished third out of 18 teams at the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union Championships held March 7th and 8th at the University of New Brunswick.

Toronto won the meet with 250 points. McGill was second with 244 points and Sir George finished with 214 points.

Leading the way were Leonard Chase who finished first in the 200-yard individual medley in a new CIAU record time and Peter Cross who finished first in the 100-yard breaststroke.

It was the best finish in the history of the institution, and that's saying a lot because there were many very accomplished teams in the Sir George tradition.

The team was coached by Doug Insleay. Every morning at 7:30 at the Y, he put a small but dedicated group of athletes through their gruelling paces for 90 minutes.

This hard work paid off. Sir George went undefeated in the season. They beat some of the best teams in the country including McGill, the swimming powerhouse down the street, three times that year. Sir George won the Quebec Cup, the Cardinal Relays in Plattsburgh and defeated Vermont and Queen's.

The 1968-69 team won a seventh straight Ottawa-St. Lawrence Athletic Association title.

A team that lost 13 veterans from the previous season and had a slow start emerged as the most accomplished men's hockey team in the history of all three university traditions. They finished the QUAA regular season in third place with a 14-4-4 record. In the quarterfinals, Bishop's was easily disposed of by a score of 9-1. In the semifinals, the Georgians upset the Loyola Warriors 5-4 prompting Dean of Students Mag Flynn to declare it "the greatest night in Sir George Williams history." In the QUAA championship series, the Georgians swept the Sherbrooke Vert & Or in two games by scores of 6-3 and 4-3.

Next was a best-of-three series with the Saint Mary's Huskies to determine the Eastern Canadian representative in the CIAU national championship game. Sir George won the series two games to one.

On March 16, 1974, SGWU lost the national championship game 6-5 in overtime to the University of Waterloo. The score was 4-4 at the end of regulation time forcing a 10-minute overtime period. Waterloo scored twice and Alain Vendette replied but time ran out. The Georgians were silver medallists.

One of the most accomplished and exciting teams in the history of Sir George Williams University, this group was described by a columnist for the Georgian newspaper as "the best basketball team that has ever donned the Garnet and Gold." They were a force in Quebec, Canada and in games versus American colleges as well. The Georgians rolled up 31-10 overall record. For the first time in the history of the national rankings, Sir George Williams made the list, reaching the No. 8 spot

Under the direction of head coach Mike Hickey, the Georgians posted a 15-3 win-loss record in the Quebec University Athletic Association regular season and dominated every team except their arch-rivals, the Loyola Warriors. Sir George finally solved the Warriors in the conference semifinals when Tom Brethel hit a shot at the buzzer to give Sir George a 69-67 victory.
